

G1010/IR&D/TP

BY : JULIET ANDIKO MUNALA

DIPLOMA IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS AND DIPLOMACY

EXAM SERIES JULY 2010

TRADE AREA
THE KENYA POLYTECHNIC
UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL AND INTERCULTURAL STUDIES

UNHCR AND REFUGEE PROTECTION: A CASE STUDY OF UNHCR IN KAKUMA REFUGEE CAMP

BY: JULIET ANDIKO MUNALA

REG NO: 108PO7281

RESEARCH PROJECT PRESENTED AT THE KENYA
POLYTECHNIC UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

IN FULFILLMENT FOR THE AWARD OF DIPLOMA IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS AND DIPLOMACY

EXAM SERIES JULY 2010

ABSTRACT

Refugee protection is the primary aspect of UNHCR. In more than five decades, the agency has helped millions of people restart their lives. The research is concerned with determining the effectiveness and role of UNHCR in refugee protection at Kakuma Refugee Camp. Chapter two covers the literature research which is based on the objectives of the study.

The tools used for data collection were questionnaires, interviews, internet sources and observation. Through the findings, the researcher was able to give a few recommendations towards the problems highlighted which if implemented will enhance the effectiveness in refugee protection.